Chairman Walsh told the Selectmen that one fact is apparent. He said, "The elected and appointed representatives of Mattapoisett show a special dedication to their responsibilities." The committee found a special commitment to the town both from full time employees to part time appointed people who serve at no compensation. Mr. Walsh and the individual members of the committee expressed the view that the town is most fortunate to be served by such dedicated people with a special responsibility to the town. In the various areas of study the committee found:

1) Representative Town Meeting

Massachusetts law sets a minimum of 6,000 population before the town could petition the state for a change from open town meeting to the representative form with elected members. Since Mattapoisett does not quite have that minimum (population in 1978 was 5,647) they found it not necessary to pursue this question in great depth. However, they did agree in discussing the matter that, while the accommodations are available to hold open meetings, it may well be advisable for the town to continue even after the 6,000 minimum is reached. Chairman Walsh said that few towns under 10,000 population favor the change.

The committee recommended that the Shellfish Constable remain an appointed position and not combined with the Harbor Master of Wharf Commissioner. They found that the duties are year round with 51 miles of shore and very important both historically and to the present because the shellfish are such an asset to the town's role as an attractive place to live both summer and year round.

3) Wharf Commissioner-Harbor Master

The committee recommended that these two positions be combined into one appointed official with the title of Harbor Master and that provision by made for an assistant to work under the direction of the Harbor Master and assume the duty in his absence.

They proposed also that moorings should be surveyed and registered and licensed annually under the jurisdiction of the Harbor Master.

4) Water Commissioners

It was recommended that this board continue to be elected as Water Commissioners and that, in addition, should be appointed by the Selectmen as Sewer Commissioners with the maintenance and operation of the sewer system under the Water Department. The finding was that the work is closely related to the present duties that there would be no problem with the personnel assuming this work.

5) Highway Department

The majority of the committee recommended that the Highway Surveyor continue to be elected annually. The committee found a

6) Council of Service Heads

The opinion was that the Board of Selectmen should create a Council of Service Heads to serve as a means of communication and coordination between various town service departments in anticipation of Mattapoisett's future growth.

Chairman Walsh praised the members of his committee for their thorough study and said it would be his pleasure to serve with them again at any time in the future. He thanks all town department officials for their cooperation and help.

COUNCIL DISAPPROVES HOUSING PLAN

The Mattapoisett Council on Aging denied their approval of the planned elderly housing project in Mattapoisett. The Council members said that, while they are in favor of a project of housing for the elderly, they are not in favor of the proposed living layout of the 60 unit complex to be built and believe that it should not be restricted to low income families only.

Council members said that they tried over a period of 3 years to meet with the Mattapoisett Housing Authority and only one such meeting occurred in which they learned very little of the plans. They were not told at that meeting the requirements of entrance into the project but learned on their own that tenants with assets over $10,000 and with income over $6,000 per year, single; or $6,300 per couple were not eligible.

In April of 1978 the Council on Aging polled the senior citizens of Mattapoisett. They sent out 1100 questionnaires and received some 400 replies. Among the questions were those to determine interest in elderly housing. Seventy-nine people expressed interest in living in an elderly housing project. Of those only 23 could qualify for apartments in the low income project which is to be built. Council members also feel that many elderly people require two bedrooms to accommodate brother and sister, sisters or even couples one of whom is ill but who want to live together. They are concerned that 60 one bedroom units restricted to low income people only will not serve the needs of Mattapoisett elderly and at the meeting with the Mattapoisett Housing Authority the Council on Aging did not approve the plans and expressed this disapproval. RUM EGGNOG

12 egg yolks
1/2 pound granulated sugar
1 bottle (one fifth) Appleton Jamaican Gold Rum
1 quart milk
1 1/2 cups heavy cream
Grated nutmeg

In a large bowl with a wire whip beat egg yolks until frothy and light cream colored. Gradually add sugar and continue beating until sugar is dissolved. Stir in the rum but make sure it's Jamaican Gold Rum because there is a difference. Jamaican Gold Rum offers more real rum taste than other Caribbean Rum. Stir in the milk; mix well. Cover bowl and chill about 3 hours. Whip cream until stiff but not dry. Pour chilled mixture into punch bowl. Fold in cream. Sprinkle lightly with nutmeg. Serves 20.

Making Sawing Easier

To make sawing safer and easier, you can put together this handy sawbuck to hold logs and dimensional lumber. One pair of brackets makes it possible to assemble a sawbuck with 2 x 4's, nails and hammer. Each bracket consists of two-piece stamped plated steel with predrilled holes and collar. A sawbuck is a handy holding device for all applications—to saw logs or lumber, serve as a base for fold-up picnic tables or a stand for a 50 gallon drum (maximum weight of 600 lbs.)—even folds for easy transportation and storage. Instructions come with the packaging. Made by Stanley Tools like to thank every individual and organization that has helped us to continue our program throughout 1978.

To Mr. Jim Duffield we wish you much success and happiness in your new position. You have given many hours of your valuable time to the club which has been greatly appreciated. Good luck Jim; you will be missed!

This week's issue of Presto Press has our ad listing all our trips planned from January 1 to February 2 of the new year. We plan no big bus trips for this month. As we have said before, we try to get some variety in the trips, and request suggestions from Seniors (or others who have suggestions), but, please not at the last minute. Please remember to call at or phone (758-3758) the Selectmen's Office at the Mattapoisett Town Hall between the hours of 10:00 A.M. and 12:00 Noon for reservations.

If our big bus trip to LaSalette and the Taunton Green is not filled by the time this Presto is published, we will welcome Seniors from neighboring towns to fill the bus. Please telephone for reservations.

FIELD WALK

The Saturday morning (December 23) field walk will study the beauty of field life during the winter months. There is an interesting variety in the community that makes the field its home. The Museum offers the opportunity to study how local plants and animals adapt to a colder climate and the drastic changes in their search for food. And, if conditions are right, we also may be able to examine the intricacies of snow flakes or hoar frost in its natural setting. This is free for all ages. Starts at 10:00 A.M.

The gift shops at the Children's Museum and the Museum Outdoors are stocked with hard-to-find stocking stuffers for Christmas. For children there are all sorts of fuzzy, rubber, glass, and plastic miniature animals, from deer to dinosaurs, a complete array of doll house furnishings, compasses, magnifiers, peacock feathers, lucky rabbit's foot key chains, magnets, robots, airplanes, and much more. For adults we have books on all natural sci-

Fiesta Navidena

OLD ROCHESTER REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL FIESTA NAVIDENA

On Thursday, December 14, the Spanish students of Mrs. Claire Flynn and Mr. Richard Ellis attended a Fiesta Navidena, a Spanish Christmas party. Nearly ninety students participated in the after-school event held in the cafeteria. Two pinatas filled with candy were broken after many strikes by blind-folded students; great quantities of Mexican Christmas sweets prepared by the students were consumed; and Spanish carols were sung. The arrival of los tres reyes magos (the three wise kings), played by Alan Bare, Mary Gordon, and Spencer Gurney, brought the party to a close as each student was asked to account for his/her personal conduct in the preceding year and was rewarded by the kings according to his answer.

area has been vibrating with music for Christmas. Mrs. Heimberg is the director of music for the New Bedford Public School system.

Also friendly neighbors from Dartmouth have participated under the directions of Dr. Robert Adams, from S.M.U., director of the Madrigal Singers; Mr. Gerald Dyck, director of the Greater New Bedford Choral Society; from Bishop Stang under the direction of Mr. Ronald Machado, 8 talented trumpet players. Among this musical display of goodwill is a singing group called "The Nutcrackers" featuring Santa himself playing the guitar. The public has also been treated to the sounds of choral groups, bands and bell ringers.

This Christmas music program will continue through Thursday, December 21, with the New Bedford High School Band presenting a concert under the direction of teacher, John Rapoza, at 1:30 P.M.

Student Language 'Teachers'

FOREIGN LANGUAGE EXPLORATORY PROGRAM

November and December have found advanced French, Latin, and Spanish students at Old Rochester Regional High School teaching grade seven students three cycles of foreign language lessons. Under the direction of Vivian Cunha, Janice Moody, and Richard Ellis, the high school "student teachers" have prepared lesson plans and materials which will enable the Junior High School youngsters to compare the foreign languages available for study in grades eight and nine.

This is the fourth year in which the Junior High School Foreign Language Exploratory Program has operated. The junior and senior members have enjoyed and benefited from using the linguistic skills acquired during their three to five years of foreign language study in the Old Rochester Regional School District, and they have sampled a possible career teaching. By offering to younger students a basis for selection of French, Latin, or Spanish, they also performed a valuable service for their school community.

The following students participated in the program as teachers or aides:

17th Century Plymouth

AREA STUDENTS OFFERED
"LIVING HISTORY" EXPERIENCE

Students in Southeastern New England are learning first-hand this winter about 17th century life through Plimoth Plantation's Winter Education Program. An outdoor "living history" museum in Plymouth, the Plantation uses a re-created village, period reproductions and an unusual "first-person" interpretive technique to depict the lives and culture of the English settlers and Indians in 17th century Plymouth.

The program offers both one-hour sessions in the classroom and two-hour workshops at the Plantation. Acting the part of a resident of 1627 Plymouth, a museum instructor in period costume visits classrooms with news of the new colony called Plimoth Plantation. Workshops at the Plantation can be individually designed to reinforce classroom units with hands-on activity, role-playing

Energy Language

TIPS FOR HOMEOWNERS

If you're a homeowner and think KWHR is a West Coast radio station, it's time to learn otherwise.

KWHR, or Kilowatt hours, is a term to know if you're serious about trying to hold the line on rising energy costs.

To help raise your energy-consciousness, and lower your fuel bills, Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corporation, a leading manufacturer of home insulation has compiled this glossary of frequently used energy "buzz words".

AIR INFILTRATION: This is the leakage into your home, through cracks and crevices, of hot or cold air. It causes winter heat loss or summer heat gain, and is a drain on your energy dollars.

CAULK: To make an area water- or air-tight by filling in cracks and crevices around windows and doors and where exterior walls meet the roof and foundations.

WEATHERSTRIPPING: Strips of metal, plastic, rubber or felt applied around the perimeter of all exterior doors and windows to stop air leaks. Like caulking, weatherstripping is easily applied and normally not too expensive.

DOUBLE-GLAZING: A specially made window consisting of two panes of glass with an air-space between them to serve as an insulating medium. It can also be a storm sash installed over existing windows. Tinted or reflective glass may aid in reducing heat gain during warm weather.

INSULATION: A material that resists the transfer of heat. The more effective insulating materials are those with the higher resistance or "R-values". (See definition of R-value.) Insulation is commonly available in either blanket or "batt" form, or in a loose, chopped-up form.

The blanket type is prefabricated to yield a uniform thickness and density, which usually assures consumers of getting the R-value they're paying for. It is sold in widths (of 15-16 in. or 23-24 in.) to fit between conventional framing joists and studs in most American homes, making it fast and simple to calculate the amount of coverage for each package of insulation.

Loose insulation must be carefully hand poured or pneumatically blown into walls and attics to achieve a desired R-value for each square foot of coverage. Instructions for achieving the coverage at a given R-value may be found on the package, but it still is very easy for do-it-yourselfers to make a mistake during installation. When using loose insulation, it is best to hire a qualified insulation contractor who has been trained to install the material correctly.

R-VALUE: A measure of insulating ability -- applied to materials of construction, windows, doors, framing members, concrete, etc., as well as insulation itself. The higher the R-value, the greater the insulating power.

VAPOR BARRIERS: Shields that resist the flow of water vapor through the ceiling, walls and floors of a structure. Most blanket type insulation is available with a kraft paper or foil facing, that acts as a vapor barrier. Unfaced insulation may require the addition of a vapor barrier, such as foil backed gypsum board or polyethylene sheeting, to the warm-in-winter side of the structure.

INSULATION CONTRACTOR: A specialist in the installation of insulation. Not to be confused with building or roofing contractors, they are listed in the yellow pages under "Insulation Contractors - Cold and Heat".

KILOWATT HOUR (KWHR): A measure of the use of electric energy equal to 1,000 watts of electricity used steadily for an hour. One KWHR will power a 100-watt bulb for 10 hours.

Getting acquainted with these "buzz words" is a good first step in boning up on energy conservation. If you'd like to go one step further, write to J. H. Meeks, Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation, Fiberglas Tower, Toledo, Ohio 43659, for more information on residential insulation.

"CHRISTMAS HERITAGE"

WGBH, Channel 2, presents "Christmas Heritage" Thursday, December 21st, at 9:00 P.M. (repeated December 24th at 8:00 P.M.).

Christmas means many things to many people, especially in the United States where traditions from all corners of the world have blended into a celebration that is uniquely American. Christmas Heritage, airing Thursday, December 21 at 9:00 P.M. on Channel 2, takes a look at six different, and highly personal, interpretations of the Christmas tradition.

The hour-long program begins in New England, where for the past 42 years, Edward Rowe Snow, better known to some as "The Flying Santa", has maintained a Christmas tradition of his own. Each December he takes to the skies to deliver packages of presents to lighthouse keepers up and down the East coast. Author of "The Lighthouses of New England", he knows first-hand about the lonely and often thankless vigil of those who keep watch over our coastlines.

Most everyone has heard the Christmas Story that begins "Twas the night before Christmas", but few people know that until Clement Clarke Moore wrote his poem and Thomas Nast illustrated it in 1862,

St. Nicholas (or Santa Claus) was viewed as a tall figure in flowing robes who was just as likely to leave coal for naughty children as sweetmeats for good ones. For the second segment of Christmas Heritage, Oliver Jensen, founder of American Heritage, relates the story of Santa Claus as we have come to know him, and visits the Barenholtz collection of antique mechanical toys. The colorful collection is like a child's Christmas dream: shelves filled with prancing miniature horses, ingenious mechanical banks, trains that really work, and steamboats of every size--a Santa's workshop of the 19th century.

The third episode introduces Lenwood Sloan and his "Three Black and Three White Refined Jubilee Minstrels" who re-create a special tradition rooted in 19th century American theater. In a scenario about the Post-Civil War era when money was tight and credit easy, the minstrels portray Rufus Rastus Jackson Brown, a high-stepping, quick-thinking dandy who goes into a shop on Christmas Eve to buy his ladyfriend a present--without paying, if possible! From the minstrel stage, Christmas Heritage moves to the Southwest, where Navajo Indians observe a very different set of customs associated with the coming of winter.

Alistair Cooke, who introduced the segments, shares his own personal view of how Hollywood has depicted Christmas. A former movie critic, Cooke presents a series of clips that show how Christmas was first envisioned in the silent movies, and later in such productions as "Miracle on 34th Street", and "Little Women".

In the final segment, Paul Engle, well-known author and founder of the famous Iowa Writers Workshop, narrates a recreation of "An Iowa Christmas", the story of his own warm memories of boyhood Christmases on the farm.
